Biography

Matt Shea works with families, executives, and business owners on estate planning, business and farm succession planning, estate and trust administration, fiduciary litigation, and international estate and tax planning. He helps clients achieve their estate planning goals and guides families through the estate settlement and administration process after they have lost a loved one. Matt is often brought into contested estates, trusts, guardianships and conservator proceedings to help resolve difficult and sensitive issues. He also helps families establish a legacy in the community through charitable planning and giving.

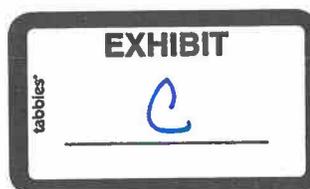

Matt has been an elected Fellow of ACTEC since 2011. ACTEC is a nation-wide organization of distinguished trusts and estates practitioners who elect Fellows based on peer nomination and the lawyer demonstrating the highest level of integrity, commitment to the profession, competence, and at least ten years of experience practicing exclusively as trusts and estates counselors. In addition, he is an adjunct professor at the University of St. Thomas School of Law where he teaches the course "Wills, Trusts, & Estates." Previously, he also taught "Estate Taxation & Estate Planning" and "Estate Planning and Estate Administration." In April 2013, he won the Dean's Award for Outstanding Teaching from the University of St. Thomas School of Law. In 2014, he also received the firm-wide Mooty Award in honor of excellent client service and business development.

With a mind for law and a passion for helping people, Matt knows the importance of developing cohesive client relationships and that trust isn't built overnight. He takes time getting to know his clients and listening to their needs. Clients say they appreciate Matt's genuine personality and approachability and they benefit from his extensive experience, engaging nature, and tenacity to get the job done. When he's not working or coaching his kids' hockey and basketball teams, Matt plays for the Troopers in the AHA and lends his legal expertise or a helping hand to those in need. He currently volunteers with the Children's Legacy Advisors and AIDS Project Estate Planning Clinic. He's a past member of Minneapolis Rotary Club No. 9, a board member of the Wildlife Rehabilitation Center, and a volunteer attorney with Wills for Heroes Minnesota and Catholic Charities' planned giving committee.

Relevant Experience

Business/Farm Succession Planning

- Business succession plan for a family that owns a construction management company that involved the use of buy-sell agreements, Irrevocable Life Insurance Trusts (ILITs), and generation-skipping transfer trusts. The planning ensured continuity of company management and preservation of the client's wealth

- Worked with a family with a large agricultural/farming operation to develop a plan to pass the enterprise in a tax-favored way to the next generation. We used ILITs, grantor trusts, and other entities to help the clients reach their goals
- Planning for an individual who owns his own small business (along with the building where the business is housed) as well as various other business and real estate interests. The client's estate planning goals were achieved by forming a family limited partnership (FLP), multiple generation-skipping trusts, Limited Liability Companies (LLCs), and a business succession plan to pass the business and the various interests down to his children on a tax-favored basis

Estate Planning

- Assisted with the formulation and implementation of an estate plan for a client with assets exceeding $600 million, consisting mainly of various publicly traded companies. The plan used multiple irrevocable trusts, Grantor-Retained Annuity Trusts (GRATs), a sale to an intentionally defective grantor trust (IDGT), generation-skipping trusts, and a family limited partnership (FLP) to minimize the federal and state estate tax and Generation-Skipping Transfer tax that will be due upon the client's death
- Worked with a family office in the formation and implementation of a South Dakota Private Trust Company to serve as trustee of the various family trusts

Charitable Legacy Planning

- Formulated an estate plan for a family with $100 million in assets mainly held in a closely held company. The plan used various generation-skipping transfer trusts, ILITs, and charitable trusts, to achieve this client's goals of minimizing estate taxes, ensuring his families long-term financial stability, and establishing a legacy in the community
- Assisted a family with setting up a large private foundation in order to accomplish their charitable intentions

Estate and Trust Administration

- Helped a family after the untimely loss of the patriarch of the family navigate the often complex and confusing estate administrative process. The advice helped the family with the probate and estate settlement process; prepared estate, gift, and fiduciary income tax returns; and worked to resolve trust and estate controversies
- Administered an estate worth approximately $50 million by setting up and funding charitable trusts, trusts for the benefit of the surviving spouse, and children's trusts, filing the estate tax returns, and insuring that the estate is passed to the intended beneficiaries in an orderly fashion
- Represented a corporate fiduciary who inherited an estate from an individual fiduciary that mismanaged the estate

Tax Controversy and Fiduciary Litigation

- Defended and advised a client on income residency issues on an audit with the Minnesota Department of Revenue
- Resolved a tax controversy with the IRS for a client who had some misunderstanding on the applicability of transfer taxes
- Settled a dispute between a surviving spouse who was not the biological parent of the decedent's surviving children where the decedent was not able to implement his estate plan before he died
- Litigated a matter for a corporate trustee that was defending itself from unfounded accusations from a disgruntled beneficiary who was upset with his share from the trust

Biography

Brian Dillon concentrates his practice on complex business litigation, trusts and estates litigation, and administrative and regulatory defense. Clients value Brian's diverse range of litigation expertise, which gives him a broad legal perspective that is unmatched by most of his peers.

In complex business litigation, Brian specializes in resolving shareholder disputes and other disputes among closely held and family-owned business owners. Brian regularly advises businesses and their officers, directors and shareholders involved in disputes over corporate governance, treatment of minority shareholders, use and misuse of corporate funds, and business succession plans. Brian has extensive experience prosecuting and defending involving claims of fraud, embezzlement, unfair competition, and breach of fiduciary duty. Brian's clients in this area come from all types of industries and include product manufacturers, financial service companies, IT service providers, software developers, health care companies, government contractors, and real estate developers.

Brian also practices extensively in probate and U.S. Tax Court, helping to resolve disputes over the administration of trusts or estates, will contests, and matters of guardianship and conservatorship. Brian's deep familiarity with probate and U.S. Tax Court procedure ensures that his clients' interests are protected, and his down-to-earth manner comforts and supports clients through these matters, which are often charged with emotion.

In the administrative and regulatory space, Brian helps clients conduct internal investigations and respond to external ones. He defends clients who are subject to government enforcement and licensing actions, and he helps them develop and implement effective compliance programs. Brian also has substantial expertise in state and federal campaign finance laws and is regularly called upon to advise nonprofit advocacy organizations on political advocacy campaigns.

Brian is a co-chair of Gray Plant Mooty's Business Litigation Group and E-Discovery team. He helps clients develop document retention policies and procedures that are appropriate for their business needs and is regularly called upon to help navigate the increasingly expensive electronic discovery process in a creative and cost-effective manner.

Before joining Gray Plant Mooty, Brian served as an assistant attorney general in the Minnesota Attorney General's Office, where he prosecuted cases under Minnesota's health, consumer protection, financial services, and antitrust laws. Brian is a Wisconsin native and regularly practices in Wisconsin courts.

Outside of work, Brian enjoys recreational sports of all kinds, fishing, backpacking, and spending time with his family.

Relevant Experience

Complex business litigation

- Represented majority owners of a product manufacturer in dispute among shareholders involving claims of minority shareholder oppression and breach of fiduciary duty, culminating in a six-day jury trial that ultimately reconsolidated ownership of the entity in its majority owners.

Biography

As cochair of Gray Plant Mooty's Investigation and White Collar Defense team, Susan Gaertner represents companies and individuals facing federal and state court enforcement actions, and she conducts internal investigations when allegations of misconduct are raised.

Susan's practice spans a wide range of white collar matters, including allegations of mail fraud, wire fraud, and visa fraud. She also assists clients with civil and criminal tax matters in state and federal jurisdictions, including foreign bank account disclosure filings and issues relating to unreported income. In addition, her experience includes defending religious and other nonprofit organizations facing both internal and external investigations, with a particular focus on allegations of sexual misconduct.

Susan is an experienced trial attorney, having served as Ramsey County Attorney from 1995 to 2011. She was only the fourth person to hold the office since 1933 and was the first woman to hold the office. Susan took a hands-on approach and successfully prosecuted many high-profile and complex cases in civil and criminal court. She previously served as assistant county attorney for 10 years, successfully trying scores of cases to a jury. In recognition of Susan's trial expertise, she has been admitted into the American College of Trial Lawyers.

With her experience managing the myriad civil litigation and advisory practice challenges faced by a major metropolitan county, Susan understands the impact that investigations and litigation have on an organization. Her experience allows her to create solutions to legal problems and ensure they are provided in a cost-effective manner, whether it is done in-house or through outside counsel.

Susan has also counseled health care providers on issues related to health care fraud and regulatory enforcement. She has represented health care professionals in district court and licensing board matters, and before the United States Drug Enforcement Administration. As a member of the firm's Agribusiness and Food team, Susan also assists clients with food safety issues and regulatory enforcement.

Susan previously worked as a criminal defense attorney for the William Mauzy Law Office and served as a law clerk for the Honorable Gerald W. Heaney of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit.

Biography

Michael Cohen possesses over 30 years of experience advising clients on legal matters involving intellectual property with special expertise related to information technology, data protection, privacy, and security.

He currently serves as local chair of the International Association of Privacy Professionals (IAPP) and is acknowledged as a thought leader in data privacy and security. In recognition of his passing examinations in the area of United States privacy laws and an advanced concentration in European data protection laws, standards, and practices, he has been awarded both the CIPP/US and CIPP/E certification by the IAPP.

Formerly, Michael served as the in-house counsel for Lawson Software, as a partner at a top-tier intellectual property law firm, and as a special assistant attorney general responsible for government procurement of technology and related services.

Michael is also the author of Computer Contracts and Entertainment Industry Agreements, published by Thomson/West, and primary author of A Legal Guide to the Internet, A Legal Guide to Technology Transactions, A Legal Guide to the Use of Social Media in the Workplace, and A Legal Guide to Privacy and Data Security, all published by the State of Minnesota Department of Employment and Economic Development.

Michael is a frequent lecturer and author on topics related to data privacy and intellectual property. A complete list of his presentations and publications appears below.

Biography

Daryn is an experienced food and agriculture industry professional specializing in government relations, state and federal politics, industry relations, and legislative and regulatory services. With years of experience, he knows the stakeholders and the process, and excels at effective advocacy before federal and state legislative bodies and regulatory agencies.

For nearly ten years, Daryn led the Minnesota Agri-Growth Council, where he developed and directed the association's government and public affairs initiatives on behalf of more than 200 members ranging from Fortune 500 companies to producer groups and diverse business interests. Most recently he served as a director of state affairs and industry relations at a $14B farmer-owned cooperative, where he led the company's state government relations strategies in Minnesota and nationally, as well as its federal Political Action Committee (PAC).

Daryn worked at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's General Counsel's office, where he worked with the U.S. Treasury Department and IRS on income tax issues for farm programs, and drafted final rules implementing conservation programs from the 1996 Farm Bill. He also worked at a Washington, D.C. lobbying firm, where he represented national agricultural and commodity organizations, and oversaw successful federal lobbying efforts resulting in multi-million dollar research programs, establishing new federal farm programs and other regulatory changes. Daryn also served as legislative counsel in Washington, D.C., where he advised a congressman on legislative and constituent issues, focusing on all matters in front of the U.S. House Agriculture Committee. Because of his broad background, he has a deep understanding of the industry and its core issues.

Biography

As a litigator, Joy Anderson aims to resolve cases as efficiently as possible in the way that best meets each of her client's unique needs, whether that may be resolving a case through settlement or continuing through trial. Her litigation practice focuses mainly on trust and estate clients, but also includes outside litigation matters such as:

- Disputes between members of close corporations (family businesses)
- Contract disputes
- Trademark and false advertising claims
- Negligent supervision and retention claims against employers

The pressure of litigation can be difficult financially, emotionally, and time-consuming for clients. Joy aims to provide not only legal support, but support in understanding and managing the additional pressures that litigation brings. To lessen these pressures, clients can be assured that Joy's work begins long outside the courtroom—as a past reporter, Joy integrates her journalistic tenacity to marshal evidence and case law, as well as form creative arguments and draft clear, strong briefs prior to trial. Her dual preparation has resulted in client successes in the following industries:

- Health care
- Trust companies
- Food/food supplements
- Financial institutions
- Landlord and tenant disputes
- Manufacturing

Joy is committed to understanding client goals and ensuring her strategy accomplishes clients' goals as best as possible, including those who cannot otherwise afford to access the legal system. Co-chair of Gray Plant Mooty's pro bono committee, she has assisted clients with asylum cases and unfair eviction claims while volunteering as a lawyer for the Advocates of Human Rights and the Fund for Legal Aid One Hour of Sharing Campaign.

Biography

Richard Landon is a business litigator and appellate specialist concentrating in the areas of franchise and distribution, antitrust, and intellectual property. Clients value Richard's diverse range of litigation experience and his eagerness to take on complex legal issues regardless of their area of law. He also represents clients in a wide variety of shareholder, unfair competition, and insurance policy coverage disputes.

Before becoming a lawyer, Richard obtained his master's degree at the University of Iowa, where he studied and wrote about the impact of copyright and trademark law on cultural production. His interest in intellectual property eventually led him to law school, where he served as a research assistant for Herbert Hovenkamp in the areas of antitrust and patent law.

Richard's interest in intellectual property has led to substantial experience in patent litigation, as well as work representing clients in copyright, trademark, and trade secret lawsuits.

In the area of franchise and distribution, Richard regularly provides assistance to franchisor clients in contract disputes with current and former franchisees. Richard also represents manufacturers and distributors in a wide variety of commercial disputes including dealer terminations, antitrust, and other unfair competition claims.

Richard also devotes part of his practice to appellate litigation at both the state and federal level, drawing from his experience as a judicial clerk with Michael J. Melloy of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit.

Representative Cases

Recent Litigation Experience

- Helped client obtain judgment on the pleadings in patent dispute by invalidating asserted patents as directed to ineligible subject matter and defend the ruling in the Federal Circuit
- Helped patent client obtain summary judgment ruling that insurance carrier owed a duty to defend false advertising claims under a general liability policy
- Successfully defended heavy equipment dealer client in two-day trial against negligent repair allegations

- Helped franchisor client obtain arbitration awards against terminated franchisees who failed to perform post-termination obligations under their contracts
- Helped defend franchisor client in federal court against franchisee seeking to enjoin franchisor from terminating franchise agreement
- Helped client obtain summary judgment ruling against claims made by terminated railroad contractor

Selected Appellate Experience

- Helped franchisor client obtain affirmance by the Illinois Court of Appeals of trial court's ruling dismissing a putative class action involving alleged overpayment of state sales tax
- Helped client obtain affirmance by the Minnesota Supreme Court of a ruling that it was not responsible for organizational conflicts of interest regarding a publicly bid governmental contract
- Helped pro bono client obtain reversal at the Minnesota Court of Appeals regarding a determination that she had received an overpayment of food stamps
- Represented non-profit client as amicus curiae supporting appellant in U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit who obtained reversal of district court's ruling on the award of litigation expenses for class action plaintiffs
- Represented American Civil Liberties Union of Minnesota as amicus curiae supporting appellant in Minnesota Supreme Court who obtained reversal of lower court's ruling on prosecutorial immunity

Biography

Brianna Mooty collaborates with clients and their advisors to build lasting solutions for their estate, charitable, and tax planning needs. Brianna's practice centers on understanding the unique circumstances and requirements of each client to craft a holistic strategy that satisfies their legal, financial, and tax-related needs.

Brianna understands the difficulties her clients face—deciding what (and how much) to leave for the next generation, what to do after the passing of a loved one, or what kind of legacy to leave behind. These are challenging questions for any individual or family to answer; resolving them requires not only legal expertise, but also empathy and compassion. For Brianna, the measure of success is her clients' peace of mind.

Brianna also remains connected with her community, serving as a volunteer attorney for the Minnesota AIDS Project, the Immigrant Law Center, and the Advocates for Human Rights. Regardless of where her efforts are directed, Brianna deeply values the opportunity to connect with her clients and hear their stories.

Biography

"The future can be uncertain, but your estate plan shouldn't be. It's never too early to start thinking about your legacy."

Holly Malcomson knows the right questions to ask. As a member of Gray Plant Mooty's Trust, Estate & Charitable Planning Group, Holly works to devise estate plans for clients at every stage of their lives, including:

- Young professional couples looking to provide for their families and charitable interests.
- Business owners looking to clarify business governance and succession matters.
- Older individuals and couples looking to delineate how their assets should be distributed.
- Recently bereaved individuals looking to explore their options in a difficult and emotionally stressful time.

Central to Holly's practice is an understanding of the values held by her clients. Every estate plan is unique, and Holly works with her clients to devise personalized solutions that meet their particular needs. She drills down to her clients' core motivations—understanding not only what they need, but why they need it.

Holly works proactively to address concerns or questions that emerge throughout the estate-planning and probate process, as well as mitigating any unforeseen difficulties that may be encountered. Her clients trust that she can act with sensitivity and diligence when disputes arise, providing truly personalized service that reflects the client's particular business or family dynamics.

While no two solutions will look the same, Holly welcomes the challenge. Above all, Holly works to ensure that every client leaves her office with peace of mind—safe in the expectation that their businesses and families will be taken care of.

In addition to her legal practice, Holly is actively involved with The Camden Promise, a nonprofit food shelf and community center serving the Camden community in north Minneapolis.
