DECLARATION OF LAUREN BETHKE

Minnesota Secretary of State Steve Simon,

Respondent.

STATE OF MINNESOTA)
) ss.
COUNTY OF RAMSEY)

Lauren Bethke, being first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

- 1. I am Deputy General Counsel to the Office of the Secretary of State of Minnesota. I have held that position since July 2024. This declaration is based on my personal knowledge and review of records maintained in the normal course of business by the Office.
- 2. My current duties include advising Secretary of State Steve Simon on his obligation to preside over the Minnesota House of Representatives until a Speaker is elected. As a result of my position, I am familiar with the events that have taken place in relation to this obligation during the 2025 legislative session.
- 3. Attached as Exhibit 1 is the declaration of Justin Erickson, General Counsel to the Office of the Secretary of State of Minnesota. This declaration was submitted in Simon v. Demuth, Minn. No. A25-0066, and describes events that occurred relative to the Secretary's role as presiding officer through January 15, 2025. Based on discussions with him, I was aware of these events at the time they were occurring.

- 4. On January 24, 2025, the Minnesota Supreme Court issued its order in Simon v. Demuth, holding that a quorum of the Minnesota House of Representatives is 68 members. That evening, Secretary Simon, Deputy Secretary of State Julie Strother, General Counsel Erickson, and I met with Representative Lisa Demuth, Representative Harry Niska, several other Republican staff, and nonpartisan House staff Matt Gehring and Pat Murphy. During that meeting, Representative Demuth asked how we should move forward in light of the Supreme Court quorum decision. Secretary Simon indicated that he would gavel in the House at 3:30 pm on Monday, January 27, the clerk pro tem would take the roll, and if fewer than 68 members were present, the proper action would be to adjourn.
- 5. One Representative (I do not recall which one) asked about the possibility of compelling the attendance of absent members under Article IV, section 13, of the Minnesota Constitution. Nonpartisan staff stated that, in their opinion, there were two reasons section 13 would not work in this situation. First, because the House has not yet been able to elect a sergeant-at-arms, there is no method to compel the attendance of absent members. Second, the House does not currently have any existing provision for penalties for absent members. The House would need to take action to implement such a provision, which it cannot do without a quorum of 68 members. Secretary Simon agreed to consider the issue further and respond to Representatives Demuth and Niska before convening the House. All attendees agreed that the House would reconvene Monday, January 27, at 3:30 p.m.

- 6. On January 26, Deputy Secretary Strother emailed Representatives Demuth and Niska, and several Republican staff, stating that Secretary Simon's position had not changed from his January 10 and 13 letters (attached as Exhibit 4 to Justin Erickson's declaration) and that, if no quorum was present at the House floor session on January 27, the only item in order would be adjournment. I was copied on this email. Attached as Exhibit 2 is a true and correct copy of this email.
- 7. On January 27, before the scheduled House floor session, Secretary Simon, Deputy Secretary Strother, and I again met with Representatives Demuth and Niska, several other Republican staff, and nonpartisan House staff Matt Gehring and Pat Murphy. Secretary Simon explained that his logistical plan for the day was to gavel in the House floor session at 3:30 pm, then there would be a prayer and the Pledge of Allegiance, and he would direct the clerk pro tem to take the roll. If there were fewer than 68 members present, he would adjourn the session.
- 8. There was discussion about how often Secretary Simon should convene the House going forward and whether it would be proper to convene every day (as contemplated in section 1.01 of the 2023-24 House rules) or every third day (as contemplated in Article IV, section 12, of the Minnesota Constitution). Nonpartisan staff stated that it was their opinion that it would be acceptable for Secretary Simon to convene the House every third day. Secretary Simon asked Representative Demuth if she would agree to convening next on Thursday, January 30. Representative Demuth asked if the body could instead convene on Tuesday, January 28. Secretary Simon agreed.

- 9. During this meeting, Representative Niska asked Secretary Simon whether he would be willing to hear motions during the session. Secretary Simon responded that according to his legal analysis and the advice of counsel and nonpartisan staff, the only proper action without a quorum is to adjourn. Representative Niska stated that he did not believe that interpretation aligned with Article IV, section 13 of the Minnesota Constitution.
- 10. At 3:30 pm on January 27, Secretary Simon convened the House floor session. There was a prayer, those present recited the Pledge of Allegiance, and the clerk pro tem took the roll. 67 members were present. There being no quorum, Secretary Simon adjourned the session until 3:30 pm on January 28, as requested by Representative Demuth. I was present in the House chamber and did not hear Representative Niska attempt to be recognized to make a motion. Nor was I aware of any motions left on the rostrum.
- 11. The afternoon of January 28, Deputy Secretary Strother emailed Representatives Demuth and Niska, and several other Republican staff, asking whether they would agree to adjourn to Thursday, January 30, after that day's session. Representative Demuth responded that she expected that Secretary Simon would adjourn until Wednesday, January 29, and then adjourn until Thursday, January 30, before adjourning until Monday, February 3. Secretary Simon agreed to this schedule. Attached as Exhibit 3 is a true and correct copy of the January 28, 2025, emails confirming the adjournment schedule.

- 12. The January 28 and January 29 floor sessions were similar to the January 27 session. The Secretary convened at 3:30, there was a prayer or moment for reflection, those present recited the Pledge of Allegiance, and the clerk pro tem took the roll. 67 members were present. There being no quorum, Secretary Simon adjourned, following the schedule requested by Representative Demuth. I was present in the House chamber during these sessions and did not hear Representative Niska attempt to be recognized to make a motion. Nor was I aware of any motions left on the rostrum.
- 13. The morning of January 30, Deputy Secretary Strother emailed Representatives Demuth and Niska, and several other Republican staff, confirming that, if no quorum was present, the Secretary would adjourn to Monday, February 3, and then continue adjourning each day to the following day until Thursday, February 6, at which point he would adjourn to Monday, February 10. Representative Demuth agreed to that schedule. Additionally, Representative Demuth stated that Representative Niska would be seeking recognition during that day's floor session. Attached as Exhibit 4 is a true and correct copy of these January 30, 2025, email exchanges.
- 14. At 3:30 pm on January 30, Secretary Simon convened the House floor session. There was a prayer, those present recited the Pledge of Allegiance, and the clerk pro tem took the roll. 67 members were present. There being no quorum, Secretary Simon adjourned the session until 3:30 pm on February 3, as agreed to by Representative Demuth. I was present in the House chamber, and despite Representative Demuth's earlier email, I did not hear Representative Niska attempt to be recognized to make a motion. Nor was I aware of any motions left on the rostrum.

15. Following the Supreme Court's quorum decision on January 24, the House

Journal was revised to remove the events that occurred on the House floor without a quorum. Attached as Exhibit 5 is a copy of the House Journal entry for January 14 before it was revised.

I declare under penalty of perjury that everything stated in this declaration is true and correct.

Steve	Simon,	Minnesota	Secretary	of State.

Petitioner,

VS.

DECLARATION OF JUSTIN R. ERICKSON

Lisa Demuth.

Respondent.

STATE OF MINNESOTA)
) ss.
COUNTY OF RAMSEY)

Justin R. Erickson, being first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

- 1. I am General Counsel to the Office of the Secretary of State of Minnesota. I have held that position since May 2024. From October 2023 until May 2024, I served as Deputy General Counsel to the Office. This declaration is based on my personal knowledge and review of records maintained in the normal course of business by the Office.
- 2. My current duties include advising Secretary of State Steve Simon on elections issues generally, including the canvassing of election results and the issuance of certificates of election. I also advise the Secretary on his obligation to preside over the Minnesota House of Representatives until a Speaker is elected.

- 3. As a result of my position, I am familiar with the steps involved with issuing certificates of election during the 2024 election cycle and the information presented to the Secretary as he prepared to preside over the House of Representatives on January 14, 2025.
- 4. Under Minnesota law, county canvassing boards certify the election results for offices that are voted upon exclusively within that county. Minn. Stat. § 204C.33, subd. 1. The state canvassing board reviews the results of all 87 counties and certifies the election results of all statewide races and elections that are voted on in more than one county. Id., subd. 2.
- 5. Unless a race is subject to a recount Minnesota law requires the Secretary to prepare a certificate of election for each individual certified as a state representative-elect and to deliver those certificates to the chief clerk of the House. Minn. Stat. § 204C.40, subds. 1–2. The chief clerk is required to give a copy of the certificate to the representative-elect. Id.
- 6. On December 3, 2024, the Secretary delivered 133 certificates of election for state representative to the chief clerk. Included in this delivery was the certificate of election for the representative-elect for House District 40B. The Secretary did not deliver the certificate of election for the representative-elect for House District 48B because a partial recount had been scheduled for that race. Attached as Exhibit 1 is a receipt from the chief clerk's office acknowledging delivery of those certificates.
- 7. On December 9, 2024 the Secretary delivered the certificate of election for state representative for House District 48B and, due to a spelling error on the original certificate, a reissued certificate of election for state representative for House District 43A.

Attached as Exhibit 2 is a receipt from the chief clerk's office acknowledging delivery of those two certificates. Following delivery of these two certificates, certificates of election had been delivered for all 134 representatives-elect.

- 8. On January 7, 2025, Secretary Simon, Deputy Secretary of State Julie Strother, and I met with House Chief Clerk Patrick Murphy to discuss logistics for the January 14, 2025 convening of the House. Mr. Murphy showed the Secretary a template script that was based on the events of previous opening sessions and indicated that he would prepare a similar script for the Secretary this year. Mr. Murphy acknowledged, however, that most of the script might not be relevant this time because it was possible that the Secretary would find there was no quorum on opening day, making it impossible for a Speaker to be nominated and elected and any other subsequent business to be conducted.
- 9. Secretary Simon also asked Mr. Murphy his views on a quorum and what, if any, business could be conducted absent a quorum. Mr. Murphy stated that the historical practice had been that 68 members were required for a quorum in the House. Attached as Exhibit 3 is an excerpt from Mason's Legislative Manual that Mr. Murphy shared along with notes on Minnesota's historical practice with regard to quorum. Mr. Murphy further indicated that no motions or business of any kind could be conducted until the House organized itself, including an appeal on the presiding officer's determination on quorum.
- 10. Aware that a quorum issue may arise, the Secretary and his staff also independently studied the issue and met with leadership of both caucuses to ensure he understood all positions on the issue. The Secretary ultimately concluded that the quorum requirement was 68. He then wrote to the leadership of both political caucuses on January 10 to notify them of his position and the process he intended to follow on January 14. He received a response from Representatives Lisa Demuth and Harry Niska on January 13. They acknowledged that the Secretary could make a quorum determination, cited authority that they believed supported a lower quorum, and generally cast political aspersions. The Secretary reviewed the legal authorities they cited and responded on the same day, reaffirming his understanding of the quorum requirement. Attached as Exhibit 4 are copies of the January 10 and 13, 2025 letters between the Secretary, Representative Demuth, Representative Niska, and Representative Hortman.

- 11. Mr. Murphy sent the 2025 script to Secretary Simon at approximately 8:50 a.m. on January 14, 2025. Attached as Exhibit 5 is a copy of that script. Page 3 of the script indicated that Secretary Simon would announce the number of certificates of election on file following roll call. The precise number of certificates of election to be announced was left blank on the script. Id.
- 12. A few hours later, shortly before open session began on January 14, Secretary Simon, Deputy Secretary of State Strother, and I met with Mr. Murphy in his office to finalize the script for opening session. Mr. Murphy indicated that Secretary Simon should announce that 133 certificates of election were on file. Mr. Murphy did not explain why there were not 134 certificates of election on file.
- 13. I was present in the House chamber when the clerk pro tem took a roll call of all representatives-elect. During this roll call, which occurred before the members present took their oath, the clerk pro tem announced that the office for state representative for District 40B was vacant.

14. The Secretary and I assumed that the office of state representative for District

40B was announced as vacant and only 133 certificates of election had been filed because the representative-elect for House District 40B announced on December 27, 2024 that he would not take office. To my knowledge, there was no court order revoking any certificate of election for state representative. Neither I nor anybody else in the Secretary's Office knows why the certificate of election for House District 40B was not filed after it was delivered.

15. On January 15, 2025, the Secretary, believing that he remained presiding officer over the House because there no quorum during opening session, contacted House staff and asked whether he would be permitted to enter the House chamber and reconvene the body at 3:30 p.m., consistent with House rules and custom. Partisan staff informed the Secretary that the House Republican Caucus had instructed them to deny the Secretary access to the House chamber. Because it would have been futile to attempt to access the House chamber, the Secretary declined to attempt to convene the House on January 15 or any day after that.

I declare under penalty of perjury that everything I have stated in this declaration is true and correct.

2. A quorum of any legislative body must be present in order to transact business and to make its acts valid.

Sec. 501. Computing a Quorum

1. The total membership of a legislative body is to be taken as the basis for computing a quorum. The majority of legislative bodies follow the quorum rule stated by Cushing: "... the number of which such assembly may consist and not the number of which it does in fact consist, at the time in question, is the number of the assembly, and the number necessary to constitute a quorum is to be reckoned accordingly." The minority rule is, when there is a vacancy, a quorum will consist of the majority of the members remaining qualified.

2. The number of members necessary to constitute a quorum is provided by the constitution. The presence of a certain number or proportion of members is required. In each but four states, the number to constitute a quorum is stated as a majority of the house or a majority of the membership or a majority of the members elected or a majority of the members to which the body is entitled. The body itself does not have the authority to require the presence of more than a majority to enable it to act unless that authority was specifically granted to it.

3. Compliance with a constitutional provision that fixes a quorum at a stated number of members is mandatory.

4. Those state legislatures whose constitutions do not establish the quorum requirement are empowered to establish their quorum by rule.

Sec. 501, Par. 2: U.S. v. Ballin (U.S., 1892); Pinson v. Morrow (Ky., 1920); Seiler v. O'Maley (Ky., 1921); Heiskell v. City Council of Baltimore (Md., 1886); Jeter v. Depart. of Health of New Jersey (N.J., 1929); Cleveland Cotton Mills v. Cleveland County Comm'rs (N.C., 1891); Hill v. Ponder (N.C., 1942).

Indiana, Oregon, Tennessee and Texas constitutions state that twothirds of the house is required for a quorum. Michigan's constitution provides the quorum is a majority of the members elected and serving. New Hampshire's constitution states that a majority of the House is a quorum but in the Senate the quorum is not less than thirteen senators.

The Honorable Lisa Demuth Minnesota House of Representatives Centennial Office Building 658 Cedar Street St. Paul, MN 55155 The Honorable Melissa Hortman Minnesota House of Representatives Centennial Office Building 658 Cedar Street St. Paul, MN 55155

January 10, 2025

Dear Representatives Demuth and Hortman:

Thank you for meeting with me to discuss the convening of the Minnesota House of Representatives on January 14, 2025. As I said to both of you, I am committed to an orderly start to the legislative session and being transparent about how I will preside until a speaker is elected. While presiding officers of the House do not typically explain their rationale for rulings, we are faced with unique circumstances. I will be presiding over the House during a time in which the caucuses disagree significantly as to how the House may organize itself. I will be presiding not as a member of the House, but as a representative of the executive branch. Out of respect for the institution, I think it is important that both of you know my thinking on these matters so that we can be prepared as much as possible for Tuesday.

Minnesota law requires that I preside over the House until a speaker is elected. Minn. Stat. § 5.05. On Tuesday, I will call the House to order; appoint a clerk pro tem; ask the chaplain to offer a prayer; lead the pledge of allegiance; and ask the clerk pro tem to call the roll. Once the roll call is completed, I will ask Chief Justice Natalie Hudson to administer the oath of office. I will then take the roll to determine whether there is a quorum.

A quorum is necessary for the legislature to conduct business, and I know that the caucuses dispute the number of members that must be present for a quorum. As I informed you in our respective meetings, I have reached a legal conclusion about the quorum requirement. My conclusion is based only on the Minnesota Constitution and laws, and was reached after consultation with various non-partisan experts. I conclude Minnesota law requires that 68 members of the House be present for a quorum. The Minnesota Constitution states that a quorum is a "majority" of the "house." Minn. Const. Art. IV, sec. 13. The word "majority" means a number equaling more than half the total. Majority Definition & Meaning - Merriam-Webster.

The Constitution further provides that the number of members who compose the House of Representatives "shall be prescribed by law." Minn. Const., Art. IV, sec. 2. Under Minnesota law, the House of Representatives is composed of 134 members. Minn. Stat. § 2.021. This means that 68 members compose a majority of the house, because that is the lowest number that is more than half the total of number of total representatives prescribed by law.

I understand that some have suggested that the vacancy in House District 40B means that only 67 members are necessary for a quorum. I do not agree with this conclusion for several reasons.

First, the plain language of Article IV, section 13 refers to the House as a constitutional entity. It does not refer to individual legislative members the way that other provisions of the Constitution do. See, e.g., Minn. Const., Art. IV, sec 22 (referring to all the members elected of each house); Art. VIII, sec. 1 (prohibiting conviction without the concurrence of two-thirds of the senators present). Because the law says the House is composed of 134 total members, that is the number that must be used in calculating whether there is a quorum.

Second, this interpretation of Article IV, Section 13 is consistent with other provisions of the Constitution that require a certain proportion of the "house" to take action. For example, Article IV, Section 19 of the Minnesota Constitution requires "two-thirds of the house" to waive the requirement that bills be reported on three different days. The Minnesota Supreme Court has held that this language requires approval from "two-thirds of the whole membership of the house." State v. Wagner, 130 Minn. 424, 427, 153 N.W. 749, 750

¹ I understand that the Minnesota Supreme Court previously noted that, in the context of municipal councils, where an ordinance requires a majority of votes of the council, the ordinance was satisfied by a majority vote of the members of the council currently in existence, rather than total membership. States ex rel. Peterson v. Hoppe, 194 Minn. 186, 189, 260 N.W. 215, 217 (1935). The text at issue was different and had a different purpose. Further, the Court's discussion of that issue was largely dicta and limited to a citation to secondary sources discussing caselaw from other jurisdictions on municipal councils, rather than state constitutions. Id. Additionally, that language was not actually before the court; instead, the Court was interpreting an ordinance that required "the affirmative vote of all members of the City Council." Finally, approximately 40 years after the Peterson case was decided, the Court was presented with the opportunity to interpret a statute that required a "two-thirds vote of all of its members." Ram Development Co. v. Shaw, 244 N.W.2d 110, 115 (Minn. 1976). The Court expressly declined to address in that case whether a vacancy should be figured into calculating the total membership of a body. Id, at 115.

(1915). Likewise, the Minnesota Constitution also permits the legislature to override a Governor's veto only if approved by two-thirds of each "house." See Minn. Const. Art. IV, sec. 23. This provision requires a two-thirds vote of the total membership of each house, regardless of whether there are any vacancies. See State ex rel. Eastland v. Gould, 31 Minn. 189, 191, 17 N.W. 276, 277 (1883) (explaining that a constitutional provision requiring the "legislature" to provide a "two-thirds vote" meant such a vote from "all of the members thereof" and not the "vote of two-thirds of the members present."); see also Making Laws: Review by the Governor (explaining that two-thirds of the house means two-thirds of the total membership of the house).

Indeed, the drafters of the Constitution made clear they knew how to draft language that required a proportion of less than the total membership in order for official action be taken. See Minn. Const. Art. VIII, sec. 1 ("No person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the senators present.") (emphasis added). The drafters could have provided a similar qualification to the quorum requirement if they intended it to be calculated on a number less than the total membership of the House.

Similar to Sections 19 and 23, the quorum requirement of Article IV, Section 13 requires action from a certain proportion (in this case, a majority) of the "house." It is a well-established legal principle that similar words and phrases should be interpreted the same way. See Clark v. Pawlenty, 755 N.W.2d 293, 306 (Minn. 2008) (declining to interpret the word "successor" differently in different sections of the Minnesota Constitution). Because historical practice and case law make clear that constitutional provisions referring to a proportion of the "house" mean the total membership of the house (regardless of any vacancies), the quorum requirement of Article IV, Section 13 must be interpreted the same way.

Finally, I note that Mason's Legislative Manual, a leading treatise on legislative policy and procedure upon which the House regularly relies, states that my interpretation is consistent with the majority of jurisdictions that have considered the issue. Mason's Legislative Manual, § 501 (recognizing that "the number of which such assembly may consist and not the number of which it does in fact exist, at the time in question, is the number of the assembly, and the number necessary to constitute a quorum is to be reckoned accordingly"). For all of these reasons, I will find a quorum on Tuesday only if 68 or more members are present.

If there is a quorum, I will entertain nominations for the election of a speaker. If no quorum exists, then Minnesota law is clear that all the members present can do at that point is to adjourn. See State ex rel. Palmer v. Perpich, 289 Minn. 149, 151, 182 N.W.2d 182, 183 (1971). Accordingly, if there is no quorum, I will adjourn the House and reconvene it at 3:30 p.m. the following day, consistent with House custom, its most recent rules, and Mason's Legislative Manual (which provides that in the absence of rules, the House is governed by usage and custom, which are best shown by its most recent rules). I would continue to convene the House at 3:30 p.m. each subsequent day until a quorum is present and a speaker elected, unless the members present move to adjourn to a date certain. In addition, because the House cannot transact business and the presiding officer's authority is limited until a quorum is present, House rules and customs prohibit all motions and incidental motions other than a motion to adjourn to a date certain.

I will update you both if there is any change to my plans before next Tuesday. I remain happy to discuss this matter further and to hear any additional feedback from you – including contrary legal analysis. As always, thanks to both of you for your service to Minnesota.

Respectfully,

Steve Simon

Steve Simon Office of the Secretary of State First National Bank Building 332 Minnesota Street, Suite N201 St. Paul, MN 55101

Via electronic delivery

Dear Secretary Simon,

Minnesota law requires the members of the Minnesota House of Representatives to meet at noon on Tuesday in the House chambers. As you are aware, the DFL caucus intends to violate the law for the express purpose of preventing the House from organizing and beginning its work.

We are writing in response to your communications with us (in a meeting on January 8 and by letter dated January 10) expressing your current plan to join your political allies in this attack on our democratic institutions.

We urge you to reconsider this deeply flawed and dangerous course of action.

As you are aware, the Secretary of State is not a member of the legislative branch, and has no constitutional authority over the House of Representatives. Indeed, as a member of another branch, you may not "exercise any of the powers properly belonging to" the legislative branch. Minn. Const. Art. III. As a matter of legislative grace, you have been invited to perform a limited ceremonial role on the first day of the legislative session. Minn. Stat. § 3.05; Minn. Stat. § 5.05. But the constitutional authority to "determine the rules of its proceedings" and "elect its presiding officer" rests solely with the House, not with you. Minn. Const. Art. IV §§ 7, 15.

This ceremonial role has traditionally included the Secretary noting the presence of a quorum. In your January 10 letter, you assert that this role grants you the power to obstruct the House from organizing if only 67 elected House members comply with the legal requirement to "meet in [the House] chamber."

Both your interpretation of the quorum requirement and your asserted unilateral authority to control the House are mistaken.

A. On January 14, 67 members of the House will constitute a quorum.

At times when the House has fewer than 134 members, it is plainly incorrect that "Minnesota law requires that 68 members of the House be present for a quorum." As you are aware, our Constitution provides that "[a] majority of [the House] constitutes a quorum to transact business." Minn. Const. Art. IV § 13. Notably, this language differs from the requirement that a law must be "voted for by a majority of all the members elected to each house" in order to be passed. Minn. Const. Art. IV § 22 (emphasis added).

The framers of the Minnesota Constitution made this distinction intentionally, and it appears they did so in order to reject the view you now adopt of the quorum requirement. Indeed, on July 30, 1857, a delegate to the Minnesota Constitutional Convention offered an amendment to change the quorum requirement to require a "majority of all the members elected." T.F. Andrews, rep., Debates and Proceedings of the Constitutional Convention for the Territory of Minnesota 208 (George W. Moore, printer, 1858). The amendment author made clear that he was offering this amendment to adopt the same view you now hold of the quorum requirement. Id. at 209. But that view of the quorum requirement was opposed by another delegate because "this amendment if adopted, will allow a minority" to subvert the democratic process "by remaining out of either House, and refusing to be sworn in." Id. That counter argument prevailed, and the framers rejected your view.

This original understanding is consistent with the Minnesota Supreme Court's interpretation of other similar constitutional language. In State v. Wagner, 130 Minn. 424, 427, 153 N.W. 749, 750 (1915), the Minnesota Supreme Court construed the urgency language (now found in Article IV, Section 19) referencing "two-thirds of the house" to mean "two-thirds of the whole membership of the house, and not two-thirds of a quorum of the house." (emphasis added).¹

On January 14, 2024, the "whole membership of the House" will be at most 133 members, and possibly fewer. While the apportionment provisions establish the maximum number of House members at 134 (see Minn. Stat. § 2.021), several steps must be taken in order to fill each of those potential seats. First, a candidate must meet the minimum qualifications set out in Article IV, Section 6 of the Minnesota Constitution. Second, a candidate must be elected pursuant to the terms of Minnesota election law, culminating in a "certificate of election . . . duly executed by the secretary of state." Minn. Stat. § 3.02. Third, a candidate must take the oath of office "before entering upon his [or her] duties." Minn. Const. Art. IV § 8. The time and place for a member of the House to take that oath of office is clear: "[a]t noon of the day appointed for convening the legislature," in the House chamber, "the persons claiming to be members . . . shall present their certificates to be filed. All whose certificates are so presented shall then stand and be sworn." Minn. Stat. § 3.05.

Because of the successful election contest in District 40B, the maximum number of possible members of the House on January 14 will be 133. As a result, the constitutional quorum requirement will be met if at least 67 members are present on January 14, as that number equals more than half of the maximum possible number of whole membership of the House on that date.²

This clear interpretation of Minnesota's quorum provision would mirror the U.S. House of Representatives' interpretation of the nearly identical provision in the U.S. Constitution in similar circumstances. The U.S. Constitution, like the Minnesota Constitution, provides that "a Majority of each [House] shall constitute a Quorum to do Business." U.S. Const. Art. I § 5.

In eerily similar circumstances, after Democrats were defeated in the election of 1860 and several states purported to secede from the Union, Congress was forced to confront the point of order on whether a quorum was present as a result of certain states refusing to send members to Congress. On July 19, 1861, the Speaker decided that a majority of members "chosen" constituted a quorum. Hinds' Precedents of the House of Representatives of the United States, § 2885 (Hinds, A.C.), published by the authority of Congress, Washington, G.P.O., 1907-1908. The unbroken federal precedent since this shameful episode has been that "[a] quorum of the House is defined as a majority of those Members sworn and living, whose membership has not been terminated by House action." Charles W. Johnson III, John V. Sullivan & Thomas J. Wickham, Jr., House Practice: A Guide to the Rules, Precedents, and Procedures of the House, ch. 43, § 2.

This rule harmonizes with other Minnesota law concerning legislative quorum, particularly the provisions providing for continuity of the legislature. Minn. Stat. § 3.96 provides that "[i]n the event of an attack the quorum requirement for the legislature is a majority of the members of each house who convene for the session." Under the interpretation of the constitutional quorum requirement you have articulated in your January 10 letter, this provision is impossible to square with the Constitution.

868 N.W.2d 234, 242 (Minn. 2015) (explaining that "the canon has particular applicability when, as here, the Legislature has enacted a comprehensive scheme and has deliberately targeted specific problems with specific solutions.") (quotation omitted).

² If some of those possible members refuse to comply with the requirements laid out in Minn. Stat. § 3.05 to take the oath in the House chamber at noon on January 14, the "whole membership" of the House will be an even smaller number. See Minn. Stat. § 351.02 (6) (providing that a vacancy in any office shall arise in the event of "refusal or neglect to take the oath of office"). We have heard reports that the DFL caucus held a premature, lawless oath ceremony, apparently relying on more general provisions governing oaths for other offices. But consistent with established rules of statutory interpretation, the specific statutory provision prescribing the time, place, and manner for taking the oath of office at the time of organization of the legislature governs over those more general provisions. See Connexus Energy v. Comm'r of Revenue, Indeed, the Constitution is not a suicide pact. It does not leave the Legislature powerless against violent attacks, nor should it does not leave the Legislature powerless against the House Democrats' threatened effort to disable it.

B. As the ceremonial presiding officer, you lack authority to make any final rulings or unilateral actions.

As noted above, your limited ceremonial role on the first day of the legislative session is subject to the constitutional authority of the House to "determine the rules of its proceedings" and "elect its presiding officer." Minn. Const. Art. IV §§ 7, 15. Regardless of your opinion of which quorum rule should be followed, you do not have the sweeping power to interfere with the House's operations that your January 10 letter appears to claim.

While it is proper for a presiding officer to make an initial determination of quorum, any such determination can be appealed to the body just like every decision by every presiding officer of every legislative body. Mason's Legislative Manual § 504 (6). If you seek to overstep your authority, you are subject to removal and replacement by the body. Minn. Const. Art. IV § 15; Mason's Legislative Manual § 581.

We are especially troubled by your assertion that, "if there is no quorum, I will adjourn the House and reconvene it at 3:30 p.m. the following day." (emphasis added). A presiding officer has no authority to take any unilateral action without a motion from the body, including adjournment. Mason's Legislative Manual §§ 504 (2), 210.

It appears that other members of your political party will engage in lawless behavior to thwart the lawful organization of the Minnesota House. You need not make yourself an accomplice in their shameful effort.

Now is the time for you to set aside your political allegiance and put our democratic institutions and the rule of law above lawless, partisan games. We urge you to reconsider the irresponsible and unconstitutional path suggested in your January 10 letter.

Sincerely,

Lisa Demuth

January 13, 2025

Dear Representatives Demuth and Niska:

Thank you for your January 13, 2025 letter outlining your position regarding the organization and convening of the Minnesota House of Representatives. As I said previously, I am open to considering all legal authority on this matter so that we can resolve this dispute appropriately. I also want to reiterate that I am not acting on behalf of any "political ally" in this matter. Any ruling that I make while temporarily presiding over the House will be based solely on the Minnesota Constitution and Minnesota statutes.

I have carefully reviewed the arguments and legal authority that you cited in your letter. Like you, I agree that the Secretary of State has the authority to make a determination of quorum when the House convenes. I respectfully disagree, however, as to your conclusion that a quorum is based on the current membership of the House, rather than its total membership.

I understand your position to be that there is a distinction between the phrase "majority of [the House]" as used in the quorum provision of Article IV, section 13 and "majority of all the members elected to each house" as used in Article IV, section 22. You indicate the former means the current membership of the House and the latter phrase means the total potential membership of the House. As support for that position, you point to the debates and proceedings of the Republican delegates during the Minnesota Constitutional Convention.

Any interpretation of the Constitution must start with the text and structure of the Constitution, rather than the records of the Constitutional Convention. Schroeder v. Simon, 985 N.W.2d 529, 536 (Minn. 2023). Because of the complicated process that went into drafting the Constitution, courts have cautioned against relying on the convention debates in assessing the drafters' intent. See State v. Lessley, 779 N.W.2d 825, 840 (Minn. 2010) (explaining that the debates "are of limited value"). For all the reasons I stated in my previous letter, the plain language of the Constitution makes clear a quorum is a majority of the total membership of the House.¹

I want to note that my conclusion on this topic is not without precedent. While this situation is unusual, it has happened before. The Minnesota House was last tied in 1979. The memoir of the Independent Republican leader, Rod Searle (who would lead the House that year pursuant to a power-sharing agreement) recounts the process that went into organizing the House during that time. See Rod Searle, Minnesota Standoff: The Politics of Deadlock (1990). Representative Searle stated the parties agreed that then-Secretary of State Joan Growe would preside over the House, would consider motions, and would hold the speaker's gavel until a speaker was elected. Id., p. 62. Secretary Growe ultimately presided over the House for a few days; House records indicate that a quorum call was taken each of those days before any business was transacted.

In addition, during the 1979 session, a member of the Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party (DFL) became ill and was unable to attend session, giving the Independent Republicans a temporary 67-66 advantage. Representative Searle recounts that during this time, members of his caucus suggested that he push for an election of an Independent Republican Speaker without agreement by the temporarily outnumbered DFL members. Id., p. 70. Representative Searle rejected this idea, noting that it might cause the DFL members to walk out and deprive the House of the 68 members necessary for a quorum. Id. Minnesota may be facing the situation that then-Representative Searle contemplated when advising his caucus in 1979.

Finally, in our meeting this morning, you asked whether I would entertain an appeal from the members present regarding my determination of a quorum. Minnesota law prohibits such an action. The Supreme Court has made clear that absent a quorum, all the members present can do is adjourn. See State ex rel. Palmer v. Perpich, 289 Minn. 149, 151, 182 N.W.2d 182, 183 (1971); Mason's Legislative Manual, § 500 (requiring a quorum to transact business of any kind). Furthermore, if appeals of quorum rulings were permitted, ¹By way of example, Article IV, section 23 refers to both the authority of two-thirds of the "house" to override a veto of an act and "two-thirds of the members elected to each house" to override a line-item veto. It would be an unreasonable result for these phrases to be interpreted differently because they would result in different standards for overriding a veto (which has never been the historical practice). See Making Laws: Review by the Governor (explaining standard for a veto override). At least one other state high court has concluded these phrases are interchangeable. See Opinion of the Justs., 251 A.2d 827, 827 (Del. 1969). Minnesota courts often look to the rulings of states' high courts to inform their decisions. See, e.g., Alby v. BNSF Ry. Co., 934 N.W.2d 831, 835 n. 2 (Minn. 2019).

they would render that requirement meaningless. A small group of members could enter the House, overrule the presiding officer, and purport to conduct business when clearly prohibited under law.

The fact that the Constitution and state law prohibit an appeal in the House does not mean that you and your members are without recourse. The Supreme Court has jurisdiction to decide whether the House is constitutionally organized and determine whether the presiding officer of that body acted appropriately. Perpich, 182 N.W.2d at 184–85. I urge you to consider submitting this matter to the courts for resolution. A prompt judicial resolution would provide the most transparent outcome and reassure all Minnesotans that the House and any presiding officer is operating in accordance with the law.

Regardless of our disagreements, I remain committed to presiding over a dignified process tomorrow so that members can enjoy this proud moment with their family members and friends. I remain open to discussing this matter with you at any point before we convene at noon if you would like.

Respectfully,

Steve Simon

Dear Representative Demuth and Representative Niska:

I am writing to follow up on the discussion this past Friday with Secretary Simon. Secretary Simon's position has not changed from that expressed in his letters of January 10, 2025 and January 13, 2025. Absent a quorum and an organized House of Representatives, the only item in order is adjournment. This conclusion is based on the analysis outlined in the letters, as well as consultation with counsel and nonpartisan staff.

Secretary Simon remains happy to discuss this matter further if you would like.

Julie,

Our expectation would be that absent a quorum, Secretary Simon would adjourn today until Wednesday at 3:30, and then again until Thursday at 3:30, followed by an adjournment until Monday at 3:30.

Subject: Proposed House Meeting Schedule

Representative Demuth,

Secretary Simon has asked that I follow up on the issue of a meeting schedule for convening the House of Representatives. If there is no quorum today when Secretary Simon convenes the House at 3:30, would you and your caucus agree to Secretary Simon adjourning to Thursday, January 30, 2025 at 3:30? And then on Thursday if there is no quorum, adjourning to Monday, February 3, 2025 at 3:30?

If there is no agreement, if the quorum requirement is not met today, Secretary Simon will adjourn until the next day at 3:30.

If you could let me know by 3:00 PM today, that would be appreciated.

Sincerely,

Julie Strother

Secretary Simon,

As indicated by Julie, your proposed schedule of Monday through Thursday 3:30PM sessions next week is acceptable.

Additionally, I wanted to alert you that Representative Niska will be seeking recognition during today's floor session. It is our belief that as a ceremonial presiding officer you do not have the authority or ability to refuse recognition to duly elected members.

Thank you,

Lisa

Subject: RE: Proposed House Meeting Schedule

Representative Demuth,

I'm reaching out to check in again on the schedule for convening the House of Representatives in the event there is no quorum present. If there is no quorum present today, Secretary Simon will adjourn to Monday, February 3, 2025, at 3:30. If there is no quorum on Monday, our assumption is that you'd like Secretary Simon to adjourn to the next day, and continue adjourning to the next day at 3:30 until Thursday, February 6, 2025, and on that date if there is no quorum adjourn to Monday, February 10, 2025.

Is that schedule agreeable, or would you prefer something else?

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Nash, Knudsen and Backer were appointed to escort the Speaker-elect to the rostrum.

OATH OF OFFICE

The oath of office was administered to Speaker-elect Lisa Demuth by Representative Paul H. Anderson, District 12A. The Speaker expressed her appreciation for the honor bestowed upon her.

PETITIONS AND COMMUNICATIONS

A communication was received from the Honorable Judge Leonardo Castro, Second Judicial District, County of Ramsey, State of Minnesota in the matter of Paul Wikstrom, Contestant, v. Curtis Johnson, Contestee.

Niska offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Resolved, that the findings of fact and conclusions of law received by the House from the Honorable Judge Leonardo Castro, Second Judicial District, County of Ramsey, in the matter of Paul Wikstrom, Contestant, v. Curtis Johnson, Contestee, be accepted without further review and that a vacancy resulting from a successful election contest be declared for district 40B.

The motion prevailed and the resolution was adopted.

Niska offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Be it Resolved, that the Temporary Rules of the House for this session, the 94th Regular Session, shall be the same as the Permanent Rules of the House for the last session, the 93rd Regular Session, as they existed on Monday, May 20, 2024, with the following exceptions:

"Rule 3.50 shall read:

- 3.50 ELECTION CHALLENGES. A challenge to the seating of a member pursuant to a resolution, motion, or court recommendation must be heard as follows.
- (1) A resolution, motion, or court recommendation filed with the Chief Clerk must immediately be referred to the Speaker. The referral must be announced to the body. In announcing the referral, the Speaker must appoint a time for the election challenge to be heard. The challenge must be heard as soon as practicable, but no later than 14 calendar days after the referral.
- (2) At the appointed time, the House shall resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole for the purpose of considering the election challenge. The Committee of the Whole is a committee of the entire membership of the House. The Speaker, or another member appointed by the Speaker, shall preside over the Committee of the Whole. Each caucus may appoint a member to act as lead member on consideration of the challenge. The Committee of the Whole may receive testimony and other evidence, and shall prepare a report for recommendation to the body.
- (3) The House must act on a report made by the Committee of the Whole within two legislative days of its receipt.
- (4) No member whose eligibility is challenged may vote on any procedural or substantive question related to the challenge. Only the Speaker or the appointed presiding member may decide whether a vote is procedurally or substantively related to the election challenge. This determination must be announced in advance of each vote.
- (5) The Rules of the House shall be observed in the Committee of the Whole so far as may be applicable except that the previous question shall not be forced or speaking limited. Upon demand of 15 members, the yeas and nays shall be called, the question voted on, and the yeas and nays recorded in the Journal of the House. A motion that the Committee arise shall always be in order and shall be decided without debate. The Committee of the Whole may adopt additional procedures to govern its proceedings that are not in conflict with the Rules of the House.

Rule 4.03 shall read:

- 4.03 WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE; BUDGET RESOLUTION; EFFECT ON EXPENDITURE AND REVENUE BILLS. (a) The Committee on Ways and Means must hold hearings as necessary to determine state expenditures and revenues for the fiscal biennium.
- (b) Within 25 days after the last state general fund revenue and expenditure forecast for the next fiscal biennium becomes available during the regular session in the odd-numbered year, the Committee on Ways and Means must adopt a budget resolution. The budget resolution: (1) must set the maximum limit on net expenditures for the next fiscal biennium for the general fund, (2) must set an amount or amounts to be set aside as a budget reserve and a cash flow account, (3) must set net spending limits for each budget category represented by the major finance and revenue bills identified in paragraph (e), and (4) may set limits for expenditures from funds other than the general fund. The budget resolution must not specify, limit, or prescribe revenues or expenditures by any category other than those specified in clauses (1), (2), (3), and (4). After the Committee adopts the budget resolution, the limits in the resolution are effective during the regular session in the year in which the resolution is adopted, unless a different or amended resolution is adopted.
- (c) During the regular session in the even-numbered year, before the Committee on Ways and Means reports a bill containing net increases or decreases in expenditures as compared to general fund expenditures in the current fiscal biennium estimated by the most recent state budget forecast, the Committee may adopt a budget resolution. If adopted, the resolution must account for the net changes in expenditures. The resolution may also (1) set limits for changes in net expenditures for each budget category represented by the major finance and revenue bills identified in paragraph (e), and (2) set limits for expenditures from funds other than the general fund.

If the Committee adopts a budget resolution, it is effective during the regular session that year, unless a different or amended resolution is adopted.

- (d) The major finance or revenue bills may be combined or separated by a majority vote of either the Committee on Ways and Means or the Committee on Rules and Legislative Administration. Combined or separated bills must conform to the limits in the resolution as those limits apply to the accounts in those bills.
 - (e) Major finance and revenue bills are:

the agriculture finance bill;

the capital investment bill;

the climate and energy finance bill;

the commerce finance bill;

the children and families finance bill;

the economic development finance bill;

the elections finance bill;

the environment and natural resources finance bill;

the health finance bill;

- (f) After the adoption of a resolution by the Committee on Ways and Means, each finance committee, and the Committee on Taxes must reconcile each bill described in Rule 4.10 with the resolution. When reporting a finance or revenue bill, each committee or division must provide to the Committee on Ways and Means a fiscal statement reconciling the bill with the resolution.
- (g) After the adoption of a resolution by the Committee on Ways and Means, the Committee on Ways and Means must reconcile finance and revenue bills with the resolution. When reporting a bill, the chair of the Committee must certify to the House that the Committee has reconciled the bill with the resolution.
- (h) After the adoption of a resolution by the Committee on Ways and Means, an amendment to a bill is out of order if it would cause any of the limits specified in the resolution to be exceeded. Whether an amendment is out of order under this Rule is a question to be decided on the Floor by the Speaker or other presiding officer and in Committee or Division by the person chairing the Committee or Division meeting. In making the determination, the Speaker or other presiding officer or the Committee or Division chair may consider: (1) the limits in a resolution; (2) the effect of existing laws on revenues and expenditures; (3) the effect of amendments previously adopted to the bill under consideration; (4) the effect of bills previously recommended by a Committee or Division or bills previously passed in the legislative session by the House or by the legislature; (5) whether expenditure increases or revenue decreases that would result from the amendment are offset by decreases in other expenditures or increases in other revenue specified by the amendment; and (6) other information reasonably related to expenditure and revenue amounts.
- (i) After a resolution is adopted by the Committee on Ways and Means, the Committee must make available a summary of the estimated fiscal effect on the general fund of each bill that has been referred to the Committee on Ways and Means by a finance committee or a division of a finance committee, or the Committee on Taxes and of each bill that has been reported by the Committee on Ways and Means.

Rule 6.01 shall read:

6.01 COMMITTEES AND DIVISIONS. Standing committees and divisions of the House must be appointed by the Speaker as follows:
